Cabinet Member Says Garcia Should Have Been Invited To

Some Cubans Evidently Misunderstand Our Purnose.

CUBA IS TO BE FREE TO ALL.

Stable Government Is to Be Established For the Benefit of All the People - General Garcia Despite His Resignation, Continued His Preparations For a Contest With the Spaniards pected to Issue a Decree Authorizing Cubans to Return to Their Farms.

Washingon, July 23 .- The war department has not yet been informed that General Shafter's Cuban allies have quit the American lines for the reasons sent out in a printed letter by General Garcia, but it is scarcely doubted that such is the case, for the friction has been growing more pro-nounced every day since the fall of Santiago, and it is feared that a severance of relations can no longer be avoided. That the Cuban junta is still hopeful of avoiding such a measure is evidenced by the confidence shown by Senor Queseda, one of the Cuban legation here, in an amicable settlement.

The letter written by General Garcia was read and discussed at some length by the cabinet, and the opinion was ex-pressed that it evidently was based upon a wrong conception of the puroses and motives of our people. These, it was said, should long ago have been fully explained to him and to all of the Cuban leaders. If it was true, as had een reported a member of the cabinet said, that Garcia was not invited to purticipate in the ceremonies attending the raising of the American flag at Santiago it was a mistake.

Everything reasonable, he said, should be done to win and keep the friendship of the insurgent Cubans, and they should be made to know that the only purpose of the United States in waging war against Spain was to secure for all the people of Cuba relief from the oppression of Spanish rule, and a stable and satisfactory government established by the people themselves. Of course, it was added, it is not the intention of this government to drive the Spaniards out and then formally turn the island over to the insurgents or to any other particular class or faction. This gov-ernment had never intimated such a purpose, but on the contrary it was well understood that a stable government for and by all of the people of Cuba had been the only purpose and end sought to be attained.

The details incident to the establish ment of such a government, it was said, have never been discussed by the cabinet at any great length, but there could be no difference of opinion as to the general plan. All of the people of the island, it was declared, must be given an opportunity to express their views as to the character of the constitution under which they were to live and also as to the men who should make laws. The insurgent Cu bans certainly could not consistently ask for more than this.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, July 21-(Delarge exolayed in transmission.)—A dus of Cubans is expected during the next few days, as they are returning to the cultivation of the country, work being the chief source of the wealth of the island.

The greater part of Garcia's army leaves here at daybreak tomorrow. Notwithstanding General Garcia's bitter complaint that he had been ignored and that the restoration of the Spanish civil authority in the city of Santiago was most offensive to him and that in consequence of all this he had been forced to tender his resignation as a general in the Cuban army, he is going on with his preparations for a contest with the Spanish forces of Holguin and Manzanillo quite as though nothing had happened.

Tomorrow General Garcia will issue decree authorizing all Cubans who have been driven from their plantations country and go to work on their farms and plantations, assuring them of pro-tection by his forces. He had added like permission to those in his ranks were recruited from the farm lands or were employed in the fields at the outbreak of the war. Altogether it must be confessed that General Garcia's attitude is inexplica-ble. His permission to the men in his ranks to go back to work on the farms s construed to mean an effort to dis band his forces. But this may not be altogether justified. It is certain a great many of them will continue to

AGUINALDO'S ROLE

Be Proclaimed Himself Dictator-United States Government Will Not Be Forced.

WASHINGTON, July 23 .- General Anderson, at Cavite, sent a message which arrived yesterday saying that Aguinaldo had declared a dictatorship and martial law over the Philippines, something that gave the cabinet food for consideration at their regular meeting yesterday. There was no disposition to force any issue with the insurgent chief at this time, but it is pretty well understood that he will not be allowed to commit the United States government in the future treatment of the Philippines question.

The visit of the German ambassador to the president and to the secretary of tions For a Contest With the Spaniards state was a basis for a belief that he at Holguin and Manzanillo-Was Ex- had called to make some representation on that subject, and perhaps as well on the question of peace as effected by the program laid down by Watson's projected voyage to European waters. MANILA, July 19, via Hongkong July 23.—The disembarkation of the American troops composing the second expedition is being pushed with the utmost energy. The Colorado regiment is already in the field near Parajano, and other regiments will be transferred without any loss of time from the trans-

WASHINGTON, July 23 .- The following message was received at the navy department yesterday: "PLAYA, July 22 .- Expedition to Nipe has been entirely successful, although the mines had not been removed for want of time. The Spanish cruiser Jorge Juan, defending the place, was destroyed without loss on our part. The Annapolis and Wasp afterward proceeded from Nipe to assist in the landing of the commanding general of the army on arrival at Porto Rico. "SAMPSON." The bay of Nipe lies on the north coast of Cuba, almost directly across the island from Santiago. It is purposed to establish a base there which will save at least two days' time in getting supplies into Cuba, as compared with the Santiago route. It will also form a good point of operations against Holguin, not far distant, and if it should develop unfortunately that a restraining hand must be laid upon the Cubans themselves, Nipe in connection with Santiago would be an effective means of doing this.

Armed guards of the soldiers made a pretense of gathering in their drunken comrades, but in several cases the guards were as drunk as those whom they tried to arrest.

WASHINGTON, July 23 .- Lieutenant Hobson, on his arrival here yesterday, was not met by any navy department official.

He succeeded in escaping observation as he passed through the train shed, coat and umbrella in hand, and followed by a porter proudly carrying his bag, but before he emerged from the station some one spied him, a hurrah went up from one throat by him and in a moment the station resounded with vociferous shouting. The cry of "Hobson. Hobson" rang out and the crowd

He stopped long enough to announce that all of the men who formed the crew of the Merrimac were safe and in the best of health and that after he had made his report to the navy department he expected to return immediately to New York. The officer was driven at once to the Army and Navy club and, after brushing himself up, he drove over to the navy department. As he approached the office of the secretary of the navy there ensued another demonstration. A large crowd had gathered about the doorway and the officer brought blushes to his cheeks.

Secretary Long came out of his prioffice and grasping Hobson with both hands, said with sincerity: "Lieu-tenant, I am glad—very glad to see you." Then he drew him into his office, where the lieutenant was introdaced to Assistant Secretary Allen and was greeted by Captain Crowninshield. Captain Bradford and Pension Commissioner Evans, who happened to drop in. He spent half an hour in conference with the secretary and then returned to the club to rest. Secretary Long stated that Hobson did not bring the long expected report from Admiral Sampson and his brother officers on the destruction of the Cervera fleet.

In the official order of Admiral Samp son, he was told to report on the Cristobal Colon and bring to a termination as quickly as possible, some decision regarding the ship, so that, if practicable, she might be saved. Later Lieutenant Hobson went to the White House to pay his respects to the president. Secretary Long accom-panied him, the two walking over to the executive mansion from the navy department. The president received them in the cabinet room. He gave Lieutenant Hobson a most cordial greeting and paid him a high tribute for what he regarded as one of the most conspicuous acts of gallantry in the history of naval warfare. The lieutenant modestly acknowledged the compliment of President Mc-Kinley and quietly turned the conver-sation to the object of his mission to the United States at this time. The subject was discussed at some length, Lieutenant Hobson freely expressing his views upon it. After remaining with the president for half an hour, the secretary and Lieutenant Hobson left the White House, the former going to his home and the latter to the Army and Navy club. While at the White House Hobson gave his autograph to half a dozen or more solicitors, although he remarked that he could not imagine why they desired it.

Lieutenant Hobson did not bring with him the report of Admiral Samp-son on the destruction of the fleet of Admiral Cervera, but he was the bearer of a verbal message from the admiral cretary Long that the report on the battle was in course of preparation. Later Lieutenant Hobson left

POWHATAN PIPES.

Made From a Peculiar Kind of Virginia

Clay and Made Sweet by Fire. The old coasting captain was gazing apun a crudely shaped red clay pipe which he smoked at the end of a long, many jointed reed stem, while he filled the ears of the observant Jerseyman with its praises.

"If you want the sweetest pipe in the world," he said, "you must get one of these. They are the original Powhatan pipes, made in Powhatan county, QAVE PERSONS HIS AUTOGRAPH. Va., out of a peculiar blue clay which is found there in little nodules and fin-

The imitation Powhatan pipes would crack to pieces if you try to burn them sweet, but the genuine can be thrust in safety right into the bright coals, although, of course, it is better to let them heat more gradually."

Under the stimulus of this praise the observant Jerseyman sent to a friend in Norfolk for half a dozen of the pipes. After a time he received them, with a bill for 75 cents for the pipes and $5 for the trouble of finding them.

"If you had not told me that the pipes sold two for a quarter," his friend wrote, "I should never have got the right kind for you. I went to almost every tobacconist in Norfolk hunting for them. Each one showed me a pipe which looked about the same as these, but was only 10 cents. Finally, one day, after I had about given up the search, I happened to mention it to a ongshoreman. 'There is only one shop the genuine Powhatan pipe. That is a little place down along the river front.' He gave me the address, and there I found them."

The observant Jerseyman has smoked the Powhatan pipe many times since then, and he still believes the old captain's praise was warranted. On the caution label which came about each pipe it is said that the peculiar qualities of the genuine pipes are due to the fact that they are finished by hand polishing instead of a glazing, thus leaving to the clay all of its natural porosity and absorbent qualities.-New York

HAPPENS ONLY IN NOVELS.

British Emigration as English Writers Se It and as It Really Is.

England no doubt loves us dearly, but the English authors have not yet discovered that fact in its entirety. Clark Russell. Max Pemberton and Anthony Hope, to say nothing of Conan Doyle and Rudyard Kipling, will have it that all Americans are Yankees, although they would resent the charge that all Englishmen are cockneys.

Another symptom of the drift is in relation to emigration from Great Britain. Statistics show that an enormous hearty welcome it gave the young number of people come to this country never heard of it. Micawber and his interesting family went to Australia and got rich. So did every other emigrant that Dickens sent abroad, unless, like Martin Chuzzlewit and Mark Tapley, they were sent to this country to point a moral and adorn a tale. All English writers resemble Dickens in that respect. In their stories the emigrants all go to Anstralia, Canada, Africa-anywhere but the United States. This trait comes under the head of 'loyalty to the crown.'' They know perfeetly well that the British emigrant, unless assisted by a British society, takes himself and belongings to this country, and even if the society kindly lands him in Canada he takes the first chance of skipping over the border. The only time he goes to the "colonies" with cheerful alacrity is in the pages of a British novel.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Swayed by a Play.

An impressive instance of a play that influenced a human life comes from one of the northern towns, where a very striking play was being performed in which the disastrous consequences following on the love of two men for the same woman were realistically presented. A young engineer who had conceived a violent affection for a girl who had resented his attentions in view of the fact that she loved another man, who chanced to be the engineer's bosom friend, witnessed this play one even-ing, and it made a very deep impression on him, as it seemed almost to have been written to apply to his own unhappy situation. Act by act the tragic story was unfolded, jealousy of the disappointed lover ending in crime and punishment, and when at length the curtain fell the engineer had come to a decision. He went home, packed up a few necessaries and a week later set out for Australia, where, by a lucky stroke a year later, he made a mighty fortune. He attributed all his success to the play in question, for had he never seen it he would never have gone away from England, and perhaps some awful occurrence might have arisen from his unrequited passion.—London Standard.

Why Princeton Appealed to the Clevelands "Shortly after the removal of the Cleveland family to Princeton an unmarried lady, a close friend of Mrs. Cleveland, was visiting her," writes a close friend of the former mistress of the White House in 'The Ladies' Lome Journal. "'Mercy me, Frances, how are you ever going to get all your daughters married off? You see from me that mamma could not do it in New York.' "'Exactly,' replied Mrs. Cleveland. But what better place could there be than a college town like Princeton, I should like to know?"

THE NEW DEVIL GUN

THE DANGEROUS IMPLEMENT I CHARGE OF "HAL" BORROWE.

ne New Facts About the Machine Whiel Formed a Part of the Battery Trained on Santingo by Shafter's Advance-Hurl Death Dealing Gum Drops,

The offer of Hallet Alsop Borrowe to ake charge of the rough riders' dreaded glycerin gun undoubtedly struck many persons familiar with that young man's past career as somewhat melodramatic. It did smack of the lines which the hero of the five act Bowery drama hurls at the gallery. But Borrowe, as recent events have shown, was very much in earnest.

His offer was made under the following circumstances: Roosevelt's troopers had been supplied with one of the new and practically unknown nitroglycerin throwers, but of all that troop of fearless men not one wanted to handle it. They were willing to face Spaniards with Mausers, but none cared to stand behind a gun which was, according to common report, just as liable to be deadly at one end as the other. Borrowe heard of this condition of affairs and volunteered to manage the gun. Some say he wanted an opportunity to wipe out the implication of cowardice which seems to have stuck to him ever since his connection with the famous scandal of several years ago.

It will be remembered that during the first rush of Shafter's division on Santiago the report was sent out that Borrowe had been killed. He was not killed, though, nor even wounded, and when Shafter prepared to bombard the city a neat little pit was excavated close up to the Spanish lines. In that pit were placed Borrowe and his gun.

The glycerin gun is the latest devel opment in light artillery. It is a queer looking device, with one long, lean bar in Norfolk,' he said, 'where you can get rel and two shorter ones. It fires a car tridge which looks much like a gigantic elongated gum drop, but this gum drop is far more deadly than the pink haed glucose variety sold by the candy peddler at the circus. It contains 93 per cent of nitroglycerin and 7 per cent of gun cotton, both extremely unsafe sub stances to handle.

Should one of these cartridges be fired from an ordinary cannon by a charge of gunpowder the cannon and the man who pulled the lanyard as well as every-

BORROWE AND HIS GLYCERIN GUN. thing else in the immediate vicinity would be obliterated. By a somewhat intricate arrangement the cartridge i intended to be safely ejected from the longer tube by means of compressed air. In one of the shorter tubes a little pill of dynamite is exploded. This gen erates gases, compresses the air and othcrwise raises a gentle disturbance. The tubes are connected in the back with the main barrel, and into this through a valve rushes the air. The sensitive cartridge is given a mild sort of push toward the muzzle. Once it is under way a decidedly more vigorous push is given by air from the second tube, and in this way the destructive cartridge gains velocity sufficient to carry it to distance of two miles. Like the dynamite guns of the Vesu vius, the glycerin gun makes but little fuss at the time of discharge. Instead of a hollow cough, it gives a thin, sibilant hiss, like that of a monster rattlesnake when it prepares to strike. It is not exactly a hiss either, but a weird 's-s-sh s-s-sh," the sounds coming far enough apart to be distinguished. Just what happens when the cartridge strikes has not yet been accurately determined. Ferhaps one reason is that none of those people who have been in the immediate vicinity of such an occurence is alive. It is said the tremendous detonations will kill every person within 800 feet of the point of explosion. We shall know more fully about this feature of the weapon when we have interviewed some of the surviving defenders of Santiago.

Even the dynamite throwing guns which the Cubans occasionally used against the Spaniards caused terrific de struction as well as widespread terror among Weyler's soldiers.

"I fully believe," said General Genie of the Cuban army, "that if we could 's s-sh' loud enough we could drive every Spaniard off the island."

"Devil guns" is the appropriate nam which the Spanish give the dynamit throwers. Probably they will class the glycerin gun under the same head.

"I confess," continued Colonel Ge nio, "that the first attempts made a ending the war with dynamite were not satisfactory. It looked as though we might end it by annihilating ourselves. For instance, we were trying it at long range one day. The captain of the gor forgot to lock it in position after he had sighted it. On firing the powder charge in the right tube for the initial explosion the gun turned up its tail, pu down its head and discharged into the ground, blowing out a hole large enough for a well and kicking half a dozen somersaults. That forgotten lock cont four lives.
